At the Spaulding chapel last evening, State Supt. of Education Mason E. Stone delivered an address on "The Opportunities of the United States in the Far East" before the Athens club and invited guests. The address was very interesting and was closely followed by the audience.

About two hundred persons attended the "ladies' night" in Vincitia club rooms last evening, it being the opening social affair of this organization for the winter. The guests assembled in the reception rooms for a program, consisting of a selection by Riley's orchestra, a solo by Alfred Edwards, with Hazel Mackay as accompanist, a solo by Gertrude Dale with Miss Mackay as accompanist, a reading by Miss Alice Lavelle and a xylophone solo by Judson Hughes. These numbers were very well received, and the soloists and the reader were encored. Afterwards, refreshments were served, and then the remainder of the evening was spent playing cards and dancing. For the latter Riley's orchestra played and until the close of the affair at midnight, didn't play a selection that wasn't encored.
